Another Snow Storm

Another big Snow Storm struck
Bow Island and Districts all around.
It commenced last Monday and lasted practically all Tuesday. It is this reported that it was from 2 to 3 inches on the level and where it had drifted it was from 2 to 3 feet should prove of great benefit to our farmers, as it will greatly increase the chances of a

Good Crop, on account of the added moisture

Although this Storm will greatly delay starting work in the fields, yet when our Farmers do start, the Crops should make rapid headway, and just a few good rains in June and July, and we will have Good Crops, that is if the land is farmed right.

Foster never predicted this, he was having a nap

The Grasshopper Plague

Farmers! Don't Minimise
The Great Danger

"The Review" notices that some people are trying to minimise the danger by saying that the live
Grasshoppers are only "Small Ones" and not of the "Dangerous" species.
"The Review" quite agrees, that some Species are more dangerous than others, but the "Review" still maintains that "all Grasshoppers are Dangerous," small or large.
Why are they Dangerous?
Because they are "Voracious Eaters"
and they have "Got to Eat to Live,"
and they say there are Millions of them.

And don't you think that the Farmers' Corps of Sweet, Green and Tender shoots of Wheat, Barley, Oats, etc. will prove more "Tempting" to them than the ordinary Prairie Grass, trust them to find out.

And talking about these "little Grasshoppers" not being the "Injurious" species—they must be of the "very toughest kind" and "Great Hostiles" to have lived through our Artic Winters here in Canada.

Can we imagine any Farmer not being greatly upset, if he saw only one Million of these little Grasshoppers come trooping on to his own tender growing Crops, (and we heard that there are Millions more) and some people imagine that they are not the "Injurious" species.

We say "Poison them all" and be on the "Safe side."

We also note that Professor Scum-ans of Lethbridge, says "that all Species of Grasshoppers can be a danger to Agriculture if there are many of them," and we have heard there are many Millions of them.

The really more devastating Grasshopper, called the "Roachlike Grasshopper" hatches out in a few weeks.

So we want to have ready and "useful" plenty of Poisoned Bait—for it is better to be a little too soon than just a "little too late" to save the Crops

Fate Of Erin Rests With Irish People Says Winston Churchill

Northampton, Eng.—Winston Churchill, secretary for the colonies, speaking at a public meeting on Saturday, declared that the way in which the Government of Southern Ireland was carrying out its difficult task led him to hope for favorable results. He said that when a political leader like the Examiner de Valera made threats it suggested that he had lost the support of the masses of Irish people.

Mr. Churchill asserted that since the Government of Ireland, broadly speaking, had been entirely left to Irishmen, it was for them to decide what they should do to win. "Will they sink into a woe of anarchy and strife," he asked, "or will they rise hopefully and faithfully to a bright future of peace and freedom, which is within their grasp? It is for them to decide.

"Their fate is in their own hands. We can cheer; but we can hope, and we can cheer; but it rests with them.

"I now join this afternoon, even in the darkest hour, my very strong faith and hope that things will come right."

Refusal—Announcement was made Saturday by Bishop Grierison, Bishop of Down, Connor and Downpatrick, Church of Ireland (Protestant), of a "service of humiliation before Almighty God, for the sins of our city." The service is to be held Sunday, April 2.

The total number of persons killed thus far in March in the disorders is 56—20 civilians, three regular police men, two special constables and a military officer.

ANNUAL SAVING OF MILLION POUNDS BY RAILWAY WAGE CUT IN BRITAIN

London.—The central wages board of British railways has agreed on a reduction of four shillings a week in the wages of adult workers, effective on April 1. This represents, approximately, a saving of a million pounds in the annual cost of working the British railways.

The reduction in the railways' wages since this time last year totals 17 shillings weekly, in certain grades of employment on the railways the standard wage has now been reached and there will not be affected by any future adjustment of wages in keeping with the cost of living.

It was predicted on March 15 that the railways' wages would be reduced two shilling per week as a result of the two per cent. drop in cost of living for working class families between February 1 and March 1, as disclosed in the government labor report.

The central wages board was formed early in the year after long negotiations between the managers of the railways and the representatives of the railway's union, the aim being to prevent strikes. Each railway has a committee of the board, and one of its leading up to a central railway council for each railway. In case of dispute not being settled by either of the board bodies, it goes to central railway council, and failure there it means that it will be automatically referred to the central wages board.

Leaders of the unions regard this machinery as not only elaborate but effective.

British Submarine Lost

H-42 Collided With Destroyer in Mediterranean
London.—The British submarine H-42 has been lost with all hands in the Mediterranean, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Gibraltar. The colliding with a destroyer during maneuvers.

The destroyer was the Vernette. The latest naval list says the submarine, commanded by Lieut. Douglas Sealey, had a complement of 23 men.

The British submarines of the H class were all built under an emergency programme, most of them in the years 1918-19. They are of the single hull "Holland" type modified by the Admiralty, 164 to 171 feet long and 15½ feet beam. They displace from 410 to 500 tons and are equipped with two main diesel engines, giving a speed of thirteen knots on the surface and carrying four torpedo tubes. Their ordinary complement is 22 men.

Asks Information On Natural Resources

J. F. Johnston Aids Enquiring About Government Merchant Marine

Ottawa.—The operation or non-operation of the vessels of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine is to come up under question in the House of Commons as a result of a series of enquiries filed by J. F. Johnston, last Mountain, the chief whip of the Progressives. Mr. Johnston has given notice that he will ask the Government to state how many vessels of the merchant marine fleet are being operated and also the average cost per day of the vessels when they are not in operation.

Mr. Johnston also asks for information on the proposed conference regarding the return of natural resources to the western provinces. Mr. Johnston has given notice that he will ask the ministry to state the total acreage and value of lands held by the Dominion Government in Saskatchewan and Alberta from September 1, 1905 to December 31, 1921.

Grain Marketing Inquiry

Government Likely to Resume Probe Into Western Grain Trade

Ottawa.—That it is the intention of the Government to provide for continuance of the western grain trade inquiry is evident from an item in the estimates of the Trade and Commerce Department tabled in the House. The item provides $40,000 for salaries and expenses of the grain inquiry commission.

The findings of the commission appointed last year under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice J. D. Johnston were discontinued when the Manitoba Supreme Court issued an injunction against them. Since that time, however, there have been recommendations that the commission should be reconstituted and a thorough inquiry into the western grain marketing situation carried out.

ONTARIO WILL SEIZE LIQUOR IN TRANSIT

ATTORNEY GENERAL WANTS TO KNOW HOW LAW STANDS REGARDING EXPORT

Toronto.—Two recent liquor seizures at Oakville and Hamilton have given rise to an announcement by Attorney General W. C. Harris that all liquor shipments intercepted upon a highway in Ontario will be confiscated and held until such time as the customs pass upon the legality of conditions under which they were in transit.

Mr. Harris said that it was his intention to learn exactly how the law stood in regard to the export of liquor. In order to do this he would present a bill to the highest court. He intimated that legislation might be brought to bear immediately in regard to the present wholesale transportation of liquor, it not being necessary to await the final decision of the courts in this respect.

Air Navigation

Must be Developed

Winston Churchill Says British Needs Separate Air Ministry

London.—During the House of Commons debate on the air force estimates, Winston Churchill, secretary for the colonies, stoutly defended the need of a separate air ministry and said that Great Britain's insular position had largely disappeared, making progress in air navigation of the highest consequence, not even second to the navy. The vital sea battles of the future would, he said, be fought by airplanes from ships.

Mr. Churchill announced that a committee has been established to examine the relations of the air ministry to the admiralty. A sub-committee of the committee on imperial defence was also being established to enquire into the question of creating a separate air force in three services while another committee would examine on which question the pooling of the administrative services on all three services depend. Thus the question of establishing a ministry of defence is reaching the threshold of practical politics.

Propose Soviet Bond Issue

Old and New Debts Are Included in Proposal

Toronto.—The Russian Soviet Government should issue bonds covering the result of Russia's indebtedness is urged by the British press. The proposal at the first session of the 'allies' technical experts meeting here to prepare an agreement for the conference. Bonds not only covering all of Russia's national debts but also municipal and individual loans to the old and new Russian regimes are understood to have been included in the proposal.

The bonds would be exempt from interest for five years. Discussions concerning Russia are featuring the conference of the experts although the Soviet Government is not represented in London.

Paid for Occupation in Germany

Ottawa.—In the Senate, in answer to a question by Hon. Mr. Dixon, Sen. Dandridge stated that Canada had received through the British authorities $314,500 in payment of the cost of the Canadian army of occupation in Germany. The amount to be received from the German reparations commission had not been fixed.

Partial Moratorium Is Granted To Germany Under Certain Conditions

British Officers for B.C.

Young Officers From India May Be Titled in Land in British Columbia

Vancouver, B.C.—Major J. W. Clark, in charge of soldier's settlement work under the department of lands, will have some 100 Indian soldiers.

Several hundred young British officers are being paid out of the Indian army, and at present the British Government is making arrangements to assist their assimilation into civil life in various parts of the Dominion. All of these young officers will have from two to three thousand pounds each.

Object to Orientals

Receiving Education at Expense of Taxpayers in British Columbia

Ottawa.—The House heard something of the perils of Oriental immigration when a British Columbia Premier declared the House—J. G. McNeill, of Cariboo.

Oriental immigration was costing the country millions of dollars, McNeill said, and the effect it would have on civilization could not be ignored. He said that the Chinese, Japanese, and the white and yellow races would never assimilate. They should not be brought together. He declared that 1919 only 29 Japanese were born in British Columbia, but in 1920 the number had grown to 657. In 1917 Japanese were born in British Columbia to every 1,000 white. In 1920, the foreigners were 69 Japanese to every 1,000 white.

Oriental were receiving their education at the expense of the British Columbia taxpayers, Mr. McNeill pointed out. In Vancouver it cost $60,000 to educate Orientals last year. The influx of Japanese and Chinese tended to lower the moral and laboring standards of the community. It was a situation which must be ended at once.

"We think about Orientals now what you will think about them in 25 years," Mr. McNeill added.

Medical Staff Will Receive Remuneration

Patients in London Hospitals Will Pay for Services

London.—Now that the system of exacting payment from all patients except those who are indigent has been generally adopted by the hospitals here as a means of meeting the financial stringency, a conference of medical officers, held in London, has decided that the medical staff for charitable work shall receive some remuneration for the service they render to paying patients.

Several of the speakers at the conference said that they would accept payment from funds collected that way but the supporters of the motion expressed the view that the time had passed when patients expected treatment from the medical profession as an act of charity. It was finally decided that it should be left optional whether the remuneration should be personal or go towards forming a fund for medical research and education.

Partis—The conditions under which the reparations commission will meet Germany a partial moratorium was announced. They include payment to the Reichsbank and new legislation to prevent evasion of the man capital, the legislation to be ready for application upon a fixed date.

A number of reforms in German financial methods are stipulated. These must be carried out at fixed dates beginning May 31. New sources for reparations money must be found and the funds collected under the control of the Allies, without any guarantee which will pass upon their effectiveness and possible yield. If they are found insufficient, the reparations commission will consider a number of other measures, including a domestic or foreign loan and eventually a levy upon capital in Germany.

It is stipulated that if reparations increase in kind to the value of 1,150,000 gold marks yearly are not equitably distributed the balance may be required to be paid in kind.

If the German Government fails to apply the reforms upon which the partial moratorium is conditioned, the allies may resort to the terms of the treaty of Versailles authorizing them to take further steps to guarantee reparations payments.

The commission upheld the figures arrived at during the recent League conference in Germany. The figures in 1922—annual payment of 720,000,000 gold marks and 1,450,000,000 marks in kind.

The text of the decision of the commission were immediately forwarded to Germany and the allies' allied governments.

France to Retain Army

Must Be Prepared to Guard Against German Moves to Future

Paris.—France must have three men to one man for Germany as a standing army when the zero hour ends again, General De Castelnau, chairman of the army commission in the Chamber of deputies, in advocating the eighteen months' service bill as sponsored by the commission.

"Germany," General Castelnau continued, "has seven divisions of infantry, three of cavalry, and these forces can be trebled over night. The League of Nations has not yet realized militarily that the U.S. absolutely refuses to cross its threshold. We have a great tactical nation, but we cannot vouch for others. Thus we must remain attached to the principle of an armed nation."

The Chamber of Deputies will now be for the Chamber of Deputies provides for thirty-two metropolitan divisions ready for immediate action.

Australia Wants Market for Wool

Useless to Oppose Trade With Germany Says Premier Hughes

London.—The uselessness of main taking a policy of opposition to resumption of trade with Germany, a course which had already been abandoned by the rest of the world, was dwelt on in a speech by Premier Hughes of Australia, according to a Reuters despatch from Melbourne. The premier added that Australia wanted to export its primary products of which Germany was a large purchaser, especially of course wool.

It was finally decided that it should be left optional whether the remuneration should be personal or go towards forming a fund for medical research and education.

Ulster Will Impose The Death Penalty For Bomb Throwing

Intervals in the Calcutta District. A party of newspapermen, seeking to interview officers of the southern Indian Legion, were the immediate targets for snipers in passing this district, and its members were obliged to flee for safety, having narrow escapes.

A constable, who was wounded in the May Street shooting, has died in the hospital.

Margaret Wray, aged 50, who recently was wounded by a bomb, is also dead.

Spraying
Calcium Arsenite for Potatoes

With the advent of calcium arsenite as an insecticide it should, on account of its cheapness and insecticidal properties, displace the use of Paris Green on potatoes, which is always liable to be attacked by foliage injury. For the control of fungus diseases of potatoes Bordeaux mixture of the 4-4-0 formula is to be highly recommended. Lime sulphur should be avoided. As an insecticide, to be combined with the Bordeaux, use to one and one-half pounds dry arsenite, of lime to every four gallons of the spray mixture.

This combination has proved on the Experimental Farms to be a thoroughly efficient control for blight and potato bugs

Why Should I Advertise?

A Pres agent, travelling a few acres, called on the owner of a general store, the only merchant in a little town.

"How long has that been there?" he said, "when the show gets in town well have the usual parade." And I want to sell you advertising space during the parade."

"Whereabouts?" the storekeeper asked.
"On the elephant has the greatest thing in the procession. I'll paint your name on each side of the elephant and there won't be a man, woman or child for miles around who won't see your ad."

"There's not one of 'em don't know me already," replied the merchant and what's more, they all trade here."

"The circus man reflected, he looked across the street and felt stupified. He looked up the street and decided that he was stupified. Then, he looked down the street so far as the church. Then he returned to the storekeeper.

"No Church down there," he said "How long has that been there?"

"Every long, I guess," said the merchant, "Most everybody around here is a member."

"That church has been there forty years," said the circus man "and most everybody in town belongs to it. AND YET THEY RING THE BELL EVERY SUNDAY MORNING."

A Prosperous Town Means More Money For You

To make any town "prosperous" means that every citizen will prosper and support his own town, and be loyal to his own town, by Not Sending Away any "News Items" to an Outside Newspaper or Send Away "Printing Orders" or any orders for Merchandise to Out-of-Town Merchants.

The man who is a Head Hauler Up of his own town, sends nothing away and sends for nothing - but supports his own town merchants and thereby helps to make his own town "prosperous," and don't you think that is the Right way?

WINNIFRED NEWS

The Community Meetings which are being held the last Wednesday night in each month at the Fairlight School House are increasing in interest.

At the last one held, a Debate was put on, the subject being "Resolved that the Initiative, Recall and Referendum are for the best interests of Canada."

The speakers were: Mr. Lurvey for the affirmative, and Messrs. Loney and McFarlane for the negative. One of the speakers on the affirmative not being present Mr. Lurvey made two speeches.

The Judges, Messrs. Herrington, Morris and Steadman decided for the negative.

Mr. Lurvey made two speeches, but the weight of the argument seemed to be with the Negative. It was proved that Canada is all practical purposes, has in the Liberal Government, already got the Referendum, from the fact when the government loses the confidence of the people they are obliged to resign and a new government is then elected by the people.

The statement is true. The Liberal Government has stood the test of centuries, and is the most popular system in the world today. From the fact that so many new republics on the Representative plan have been established since the world was evidence that the statement is true.

The world is weary of the one man rule, and on the other hand it would be to go to the other extreme to put the making, executing and administering of the laws in the hands directly of the people. It would be too expensive with all the expense of taxation that is now on the people.

Where this system has been tried it has not proven a "Cure All" of the evils complained of by the people. As for the state standards and human beings remain selfish there will be calls to overcome whatever system of Government is established.

A good Government is only found where the people are good. The success or failure of any Government depends on the Government in the Home. Self Government is the only way to make a home Government. If a man or woman cannot control themselves how can they control those who are under their management and teaching. Many examples might be cited to show that many great men were able to wield a large influence in controlling vast armies and people and yet were not able fully to control self, which led to their final disaster and defeat.

A BAND WITH A HISTORY

That splendid British regiment, the Scots Guards, as they are known to-day, look back to the merry monarch, Charles I., as the chief author of their regimental lineage. In 1636 King Charles authorized the Marquis of Argyll to raise a regiment of 1,500 men to protect the recently created Scottish colonies in Ireland. It was a tall beginning. The regiment had its birth in a troublesome job, and was followed, and most of them later found their way into Argyle's force, since when the regiment, under its name or another, has been in the forefront of the British army as well as a school of others less well remembered. What the Scots Guards did in the Great War would make columns long to be quoted here. They were an important part of the ever-glorious story of the war. From 1914 to the end of the war, the Scots Guards came back from a battered remnant of what was once a regiment, and just as often it went back again, stepping blithely into the maddest of maddest and the most dangerous of all, and according to the Scots Guards' standard, The regiment's decorations were during the war included 5 Victoria Crosses, 26 Distinguished Service Orders and 661 other rewards for gallantry.

It is the Scots Guards Band that is the most particularly interesting of all the world's finest bands in honor. This band is itself entirely old, and critics say it has never before achieved the high level of musical reputation that it now has, under the leadership of Lieut. F. W. Wood, who was an outstanding position among the world's great interpretative conductors.

This tour was arranged for the benefit of the Great War Veterans' Association, and its purpose is largely to direct attention to the fine work of the Association. An important feature of the tour is the fact that it is the band of the Scots Guards, which in connection with the British Empire's most important musical undertakings is world-wide in its scope. The band will arrive in Canada about May 1, on the Canadian Pacific Steamship "Essex" of Scotland.

THE ROYAL ARMS OF CANADA

(By Professor Percy E. Nobbs)

While the feeling of Canadians appears to be distinctly against titular honors, and while the interest in personal coats of arms is so slight that the whole machinery of registration is ignored alike by the many unaffected and by the few affected to bear arms, there has of late been quite a healthy development in the matter of place heraldry. Many Canadian towns have adopted coats of arms, and for the most part they are feasible, heraldically speaking, and in some instances duly registered at the College of Heralds in London. The province, both new and old, have beautiful coats of arms, duly granted, and used to the full by the provincial governments, both as decorations to public printing, and as flags, on occasion. The Federal authority has, however, till quite recently, been less well furnished, and the maple leaf, the beaver, the arms of the four first provinces to federate, marshalled together on a quartered field, and last, but not least, a marvellous coat of arms of all nine provinces, have all been used as a symbol of sovereignty in a rather indiscriminate fashion.

Just recently, His Majesty the King—the Empire's "fountain of honor"—to use the heraldic phrase—has been graciously pleased to approve a Royal Coat of Arms for Canada.

It is not generally understood that the Arms of Sovereignty are not necessarily the personal Arms of the sovereign, and in case of conquest the Arms of Sovereignty pass automatically to the conquering ruler at least that has been the way of it in Europe. When the King is in Scotland, his standard is flown, and on it the Scots Arms occur on the first and fourth quarters, and the English and Irish Arms on the second and third quarters respectively. Also, his Scots Arms are surmounted by a different crest, a red lion sitting up, his supporters the lion and the unicorn, are transposed, and they usually carry banners with the St. Andrew's and St. George's crosses. And so the King's Arms, by their very nature, are differentiated by repeating the harp on the blue field twice.

Henceforth, in Canada, when the King is represented in authority by a piece of ornamental symbolism which we call his Coat of Arms, it will be as in the case of Scotland and Ireland, by a variant upon the Royal Arms of England. To avoid the heraldic portmanteau phraseology (which is the briefest and most concise form of scientific descriptive expression ever invented, but a language not taught in the schools) the design will be as follows:

The shield will have four quarters, and a base on the right and left at the top, we have the three gold leopards of England on a red background, and the red lion of Scotland, with his blue claws and tongue, on a gold background, with a double line of decorated framing round him. Below the English leopards, on a blue background, we have the golden harp of Ireland, with its silver strings, and below the Scots lion we have the three gold lions of England, also on a blue background; and at the bottom of the shield we have the cross Canadian maple leaves in white or silver background. The supporters are a gold lion (without a crown on his head) as in the Royal Arms of England, and a silver unicorn with gold trimmings, including his collar and his chain, and bearing as a banner the ancient Arms of France, that is to say, a pattern of gold lilies on a blue field. Above the shield, the sovereignty being royal, there is a royal gold helmet, with the imperial crown, and on this crown there stands the crest consisting of a ferocious little golden lion waving a red maple leaf in his paw, and wearing a crown on his head. It is to be observed that the crown and crest are attached to the helmet by means of red and white wreath, and this may be done as ribbons twisting in and out of the crown, or even as a red and white cord round a cushion on top of the helmet, for if the rules of good heraldry are very rigid in the matter of the shield, they are very elastic as to interpretation of the accessories.

And so with the mantling. The old Scottish custom of blue and white will be followed, with this difference, that instead of white we have ermine, and as this goes well with royal blue, the combination makes a far finer royal achievement than if a gold and silver mantling is added to a gold helmet, a gold crown and a gold crest.

There is no mottoed garter, or chain and jewel of a knightly order, surrounding the shield, and this is probably an intentional difference in consequence with the present position of affairs.

The motto again is different from that of the Royal Arms as used in England, Scotland and Ireland, being "A mari usque ad mare."

On the Royal Arms of England there occurs at the bottom an ornament—the three badger flowers combined on one stem, symbolizing the Union. In the case of the Royal Arms of Canada the badger flowers will be somewhat more numerous, consisting of a rose flanked by a thistle, a lily and shamrock, and leaf leaves, and terminating at each side in a twig of maple. This ornament may, of course, be treated with considerable freedom, and the coloring be made as conventional or as naturalistic as the taste of the artist may require. So, we have in the Royal Arms of Canada an agglomeration of symbols sanctified by origin, by lines, and by association—the leopards of Edward the First, and lilies of Ancient France and of the Bourbonian empire, the red Scottish lion that was old when Robert the Bruce replaced his private arms with the arms of the Sovereignty of Scotland, and the supporting unicorn, with a cross about his neck, which was once the crown of a French Dauphin, in Mary Stuart's day, and though the crown has now the distinctive crosses of the Scots crown, the old chain is still appended thereto. The crest is the crown as it was in the Black Prince's time, with the addition of a cross on the lion's head and a maple leaf to his paw. The Union Jack on the banner is itself a combination of the crosses of the patron saints—St. Patrick from the earliest culture in the British Isles, and St. Andrew's, near as old, and St. George's cross that was used in land fighting since 1066. But its use at sea, according to the Geneva, was bought from them for gold, because theirs was the only flag respected by Turks and Kuffs, and Englishmen and Scotsmen fought for the adjustment of their borders. Masonic Dance At Burdett

Huge Success

The Masonic Dance held at Burdett the Friday evening the 7th, last was one of the most enjoyable events of the past year and a large number of the Bow Island Brethren availed themselves of the Hospitality of the Burdett friends. Seven cars leaving Bow Island for Burdett at 7:30, all making the journey up without mishap, but it would take chapters to give the details of the return journey, the Beattie, Roach and Ostrum Fords being the only cars to make the return journey without mishap. The Dance was preceded by a Picture-show when dancing started at 10:30 p.m., and was kept up until 3:30 a.m. Mr. Hurst's eight piece orchestra certainly made good and the music was a treat and so irresistible that many present that had given up dancing were forced to yield to its call. Alex Hamilton, Eddie Wilmut and Alf. Holson setting a pace that made such Experts as Mayor Reid and G. C. Foster sit up and look to their laurels. A most sumptuous Supper was served at Midnight, and the Ladies of Burdett certainly made a name for themselves as hostesses.

"The Review" has pleasure in printing the following short piece of poetry entitled "The Dream of Pilate's Wife" (she was the wife of Pontius Pilate who allowed Christ to be condemned to Crucifixion).

They were Jewish Priests and Elders that are mentioned in this Poetry. This poetry discloses more of its "beauties" and its unfolding of Spiritual things in the great hereafter and the unselfishness of women. Every time it is read, and in our opinion it is one of the Finest Classics of Poetry, and is well worth cutting out and keeping with your hearts' treasures.

The Dream of Pilate's Wife

It was not Sleep that bound my sight,
Before my wandering eyes there stood
A vast, a countless multitude;
The hoary sire, the peatling child,
The mother and the maiden mild,
The gladsome youth, and man of care—
All tribes, all ages, mingled there;
And all, where'er I turned to see,
In humble silence bent the knee.
Still e'er the crowded scene I gazed:
Against the lurid Eastern sky
I saw the shameful Cross upreared,
I saw the sufferer doomed to die.
'Twas He whom late with sorrowing
In Zion's streets I oft had seen;
And now in cold and agony,
He turned a dying look on me.
Then softly from that gathering throng
A sound of solemn song
And while I caught the swelling lay,
The myriad voices seemed to say—
"And we believe in Him that died,
By Pontius Pilate crucified—
That He shall come, when time is fled,
To judge the Living and the Dead."

I woke;—'twas not by my side,
I heard a loud, exulting cry;
I heard the scornful priests deride
The Elders murmur "Crucify!"
O Pilate! thou marked my Prayer,
That guiltless blood to shield and spare,
That deed of horror would not be
A stain to blot—a Curse to thee!
Our scenes of early love are past;
Our youthful spring is withered all;
Afar from Rome our lot is cast,
Beneath the sunny skies of Gaul;
The thoughts that memory treasures
Yet.

Of other days, begin to flee;
But never shall my heart forget
"The Crucified of Galilee!"
"The Review" thinks that the quality of "Mercy" is Co-existent with "Justice" in every "real woman's heart"; we see it on every side and "Mercy" filled the heart of the poor Wife of Pilate and it is these two chief qualities of "Mercy and Justice" in every "real woman's heart," that lightens the Joys of this earth, like the Sun at noonday.

"Mercy" falls as the dew from Heaven Enriching him who gives and him who receives."

News In Brief

LONDON, ENGLAND.—The claim

of the United States for maintaining an American Army on the Rhine, has been accepted by Great Britain in a very friendly manner.

OTTAWA.—The Labor resolution to abolish the Royal Canadian Mounted Police from the organized Provinces of the Dominion, after a long, hot Debate all the afternoon of last Monday, was eventually defeated by 10 to 17—most of the Farmers voted that they should be Abolished and most of the Liberals headed by Premier King the "Review" refuses to use the word "murder" in this case; and during his trial, poor Gallagher could not hear a word of the evidence being hurled against him.

Winnipeg—A "Poor Man" and a "Brave Veteran" should have been so convicted, is staggering to all on some ideas of "Fair Play and British Justice" for which this Veteran had "fought and bled" to preserve.

EDMONTON.—It is reported that, Alfred Cuddy, the Commissioner of the Alberta Police has accepted the post as Assistant Commissioner of the Provincial Police of Ontario—he expects to leave for his new home very soon.

GENOA, ITALY.—The Genoa Economic Conference for the discussion of the Economic Reconstruction of all Europe, opened last Monday—after a hot debate the Delegates from Germany and Soviet Russia were at last admitted to the Conference—Disarmament was the first item on the program.

ST. MARY'S, IDAHO.—William Bersford aged 17 of Millcreek, Alberta while testing a tide on a freight train last Sunday, fell and both his legs were cut off—just before he died he said he was faint from want of food, having had nothing to eat for 3 days.

His father is expected to arrive soon.

New Trial For John Gallagher
The War Veteran

"The Review" is wholeheartedly glad to say, that last Friday, the Appellate Court ordered a New Trial of John Gallagher a War Veteran, "who fought for Canada and British Justice" at the great "Battle of Ypres" and afterwards in other battles, his wounds causing him to become totally Deaf.

He was charged and convicted simply and on only "supposedly correct Circumstantial evidence" (which often in the past has proved faulty). Incorporated killing John Croward at Carleton, the "Review" refuses to use the word "murder" in this case; and during his trial, poor Gallagher could not hear a word of the evidence being hurled against him.
